USE FOR CHRONIC DRUNKARDS.—Chronic drunkards are put to an excellent use in Ohio under the new liquor law. The wife or other relative who suffers most at the hands—and feet—of the chronic induces him to fill himself with intoxicating fluid and then kill himself. Suit is thereupon brought against the last man who had the misfortune to sell liquor to the drunkard, and the jury compels him to pay what is considered a fair price for the departed. A very inferior article of drunken husband can be made in this way to net his widow from five to eight thousand dollars.

A girl in Louisa county, Iowa, who will not be fifteen years old till next January, has lately taken herself a second husband. Her maiden name was Rebecca Beamer, and she kept it for thirteen years and six months, when she married a man named Head. In less than a year she lost her head and became the blushing bride of Mr. John Goven.—St. Joseph Chronicle.

The fire reporter of the Post says, concerning the conflagration at the North Point Dock warehouse: "The pig iron is of course uninjured." This quieted much public apprehension, for it was considered certain that if the pig iron had caught fire, nothing could have saved the city.

Chicken rearing by machinery has reached its last and most glorious period—it even supplies an artificial mother hen for the guileless chicken to brood under at night, and fly to in moments of peril during the day.

The "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash," as applied to Dan Voorhees, Morton's successor was good until Hannibal Hamlin, the thoughtful Senator from Maine, entered the field as the "Pensive Poplar of the Piscataquis."

In July, 1777, Anne Marrow was tried and convicted for having, while in man's dress, married three women, in order to steal their clothes. In the pillory she lost both eyes.

The idea of teaching every girl to thump a piano and every boy to be a book keeper, will make potatoes four dollars per bushel in twenty years.

Attempt to Defraud the Government.

Copies of the petition to Congress relative to the disposal of the railroad lands are being circulated in Virginia and Gold Hill, and are receiving the signatures of the principal business men, as well as everybody interested in the matter. To the people of Nevada this is a matter of considerable importance. Those alternate sections of land along the line of the Central Pacific railroad should come under one ownership, either the railroad company or the Government, and in that case it is by all means preferable that the Government should be the sole owner. The railroad company offer to sell at less than Government rates, the proceeds to be applied toward the payment of its indebtedness to the government. The rate can be agreed upon by Congress, or a commission appointed for the purpose, and the title reverted or reconveyed to government, putting these valuable lands where they should belong on a par with the rest of the Government lands. This is greatly to the advantage of the agricultural and general interests of this State, and the petitions should be fully signed by everybody.—Gold Hill News.

We entirely disagree with the view taken by the editor of the Gold Hill News. Why should the government or the railroad own singly the lands along the line of the C. P. R. R.? By a parity of reasoning, small land owners or the government should own all the lands of the United States. This railroad company offer to sell their refuse lands to the government for $1.25 per acre, when similar lands are now offered in the market by the government for twenty-five cents per acre. Further, the State and government receive a tax upon these railroad lands now, and no tax would be derived therefrom were said lands the property of the government.

OPHIR.—That east drift on the 1900 level still continues in the horse, but the nature of the animal shows changes, the streaky admixture of quartz being more or less plentiful at various points. The drift was into the body of the horse 28 feet at noon Friday. Professor Gunning, the well-known geologist, has a very good opinion of the new ore vein, and predicts that it will lead into a good bonanza. He expressed his opinion, however, that it is no portion of the big bonanza of the California, but a little old bonanza by itself. He agrees with us in saying that the drift is very liable to run through into something rich beyond the horse.—Gold Hill News.

Sam Curtis, who is now on the Comstock is of the same opinion as Prof. Gunning. He says: "That while prospecting east with a diamond drill on the 1700 level, some months ago, he found sufficient to cause him to believe he had struck the top of an ore channel or chimney. In his opinion, the chimney had not been tapped at the 1900 level, and if sunk upon or followed up would lead into a big bonanza of pay ore."

Bland's Silver Bill now in the hands of the Senate Finance Committee, will receive an amendment by that Committee. Thus a good bill is delayed and perhaps virtually killed.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs has agreed to recommend the passage of a bill providing for American representation at the Paris Exposition. The bill now agreed upon proposes for the total appropriation about $160,000.

OFFICIAL VOTE OF PENNSYLVANIA.—Harrisburg, November 15.—The official vote of Pennsylvania shows that Sterrett (Republican), for Supreme Judge received 244,480; Trunkley (Democrat), 251,000; Bartley (Greenback), 51,532, and Winton (Prohibition), 2,899 votes. Trunkley's plurality, 6,520. The other officers' votes were in about the same proportion.

WASHINGTON, November 15.—Bruce presented a petition of colored residents of Mississippi, asking an appropriation of $100,000 to aid them in emigrating to Liberia. Referred. He said the number and character of the petitioners entitled their petition to consideration, although he was not prepared to ignore their plan now.

It is proposed to attempt the propagation of catfish in the Carson river. Muddy water would suit them to a dot.

ARIZONA.

NO. 4.

[From Our Special Correspondent.]
TUCSON, November 7, 1877.

The Silver King discovery opened up the richest deposit of mineral then known, but in Arizona there is no such thing as a me plus ultra in mines, and won't be probably until some lucky wight finds a spot where he can hand out gold already coined and stamped directly from the bosom of mother earth. East of the Silver King there was a range of mountains distinctly to be seen that appeared likely, but they belonged to the 'Apache' Indians, they being in the San Carlos reservation. Prospectors, however, have no ideas of titles in the hands of Government or Indians and so went over to the mountains about Pinal Creek and found any quantity of mineral indications. Meetings were held, petitions framed, forwarded to Washington and a slice cut off the western part of the reservation large enough to form the Globe mining district, and in this district have been found mines that make the riches of "Araby, the blest and farther India" pale and even the Silver King itself fall back to a second place. I am almost afraid to put on paper, to be laid before men the least versed of any in the world in mining matters, some of the results obtained in the Globe district. Relying, however, upon your promise not to let my name or personality become known, and also giving Fred Hart to understand that what I say is strictly true, I am in no way desirous of taking his place in the presidential chair of the Sazarc Lying Club out in Austin, I will tell you what has been done in one mine in this district: The Stonewall Jackson mine was located by two prospectors named McMillan and Harris. After going down a few feet they bonded the mine to some parties in California for the sum of $125,000 and kept on sinking themselves. They sunk a shaft seventy-five feet deep and got $80,000 when the bonders paid the sum agreed upon and got possession. In the mine there is a large vein of low grade ore, well developed, but as yet this is not thought of at all, for running along the foot-wall is a streak, which has increased in width from one inch to between six and seven as the shaft has been sunk, containing an ore which is about seventy-five per cent. silver and from this streak comes the money. Its present owners, working but three or four men, in one month dug out $100,000, and say they have $1,000,000 more in sight. The mining is unlike that anywhere else in the world, I suppose, for the following is the process: A miner goes down into the shaft with a pick and an ax and breaks off pieces of the streak which he thinks will weigh about two hundred and fifty pounds, (a good load for one side of a mule), and then deliberately chops off with his ax some of the corners and sends it above. Here another man takes it, sits down on it and further chops it up so as to have of convenient shape for packing, puts it on a mule and sends it off for shipment to San Francisco. They hardly mine that way on the Comstock, do they? Tons of ore, which has been obtained entirely by labor of this kind, have been shipped to San Francisco and sold there for $12,000 to $20,000 per ton. This remarkable streak runs along the ledge for miles, but nowhere has been worked to such an extent as in the Stonewall Jackson claim. When the whole lode is turning out rock that is nearly pure silver, then the question of what to do with the silver will be one of importance.

Directly east and northeast of the Globe District is the San Carlos Indian Reservation, covering a large section of country. As this is one of the great Indian Reservations of the nation, and as upon its proper management depends the prosperity and development of Arizona, a few words about it may not be out of place. On this reservation are now all the Apache Indians except those employed as scouts, and some thirty renegades who are hostile. Five thousand of the most cruel, unrelenting and keenest Indians in the United States are here kept quiet without the aid of a single member of the army. Some four years ago there were five different agencies for the Apaches, but the success achieved at San Carlos by Mr. Clunna, now editor of the Pioneer paper, made the government determine to have him in control of all the various tribes. To accomplish this purpose, he, in the face of a determined and fierce opposition from army officials, successfully and without a single mishap, led four different bands from their homes and stamping grounds over hundreds of miles of country, and placed them safely within the bounds of the reservation. Here he maintained perfect order by a policy of his own. He enlisted about fifty Indians as police, and made these understand that upon their good behavior and energy depended the peace of the reserve. Many little quarrels and difficulties have arisen among Indians, as would naturally among five thousand people of any kind; but no body of peace keepers ever attended more faithfully and promptly to their duties than do these fifty San Carlos police. As a consequence peace, prosperity and advancement resulted, and the fierce Apache Indian is fast becoming an honest Granger or stockman. Everyone acknowledged that the Indians were well managed, that the agent was in every way the exact man for his place; but do you think his life was one of ease and comfort? There he lived among five thousand savages who might any day see fit to kill him; was under heavy bonds, as between four and five hundred thousand dollars were annually expended for rations and clothing for the Indians; lived on a salary of $1,500 a year (what an extravagant salary government does pay—economy should come in in such pay as this); and was, worst of all, the centre of the fight by the War Department to get control of the Indians. Insinuations, reflections, calumniation of all kinds, came from every quarter upon this live agent; but he was a fighting man, and struck back harder than he was hit. After striving in every way to get rid of him, at the end of nearly three years of useless warfare, the army succeeded in getting an order issued to have an officer stationed at the agency, nominally to inspect the issuance of rations and serve as a check. Mr. Clunna did not look at it in that light, however, but thought of spies and false reports, etc., and feeling much as must a man who is a ticket collector on a city horse-car, when all sorts of devices are being gotten up to prevent nipping, like the true, upright and fearless man he is, resigned in disgust, at the same time telling a reform administration in rather vigorous terms how nice it was to have a tried, capable and honest officer. A new agent is now at San Carlos, a man from Ohio, and it is the constant prayer hereaway that he may follow in the footsteps of his predecessor, and in spite of opposition and conflict, keep the Indians at home.

Passing over this Indian land, to a little strip of country, which has also been taken from the Reservation adjoining the New Mexican line, called the Copper Mountain Mining District, we find another mineral region as remarkable in its line as is Globe. Here are found vast mountains of copper, so readily obtained that while mines in Pennsylvania and on Lake Superior have to shut down because of the low value at present, of copper, that obtained here can be teamed over five hundred miles by mules and oxen, and then shipped by rail three thousand miles, and still be sold at a small profit. When a railroad comes within a hundred miles, the mines of Clifton, Arizona, will easily supply the world with copper.

Verily, this Territory is great in natural wealth, and is the "Wonder Land of America."

REPUTATION SPOILED.—Richart, the man who was tried a few days ago in the Justice Court for forging a telegram or rather attempting to do so, assayed to show the Justice that he, defendant, was a man of good character, and to this end subpoenaed Messrs. Coleman and Wintermantel as witnesses. Mr. Coleman said, "Yes I have known defendant for a number of years, and I further know that he 'bilked' me out of some $15 board bill." Mr. Wintermantel had also been a loser of a week or more board, and had been informed that defendant had been in San Quentin for forgery. Richart had no more character witnesses to introduce, and his immaculate soul recoiled, and as he was escorted away by Barlow, he gently murmured, "He who steals my money—no, I have none; but he who robs me of my good name takes that which does not him enrich, and makes me poor indeed."

ANOTHER STONE WALK.—We are informed that a stone walk, from McFarlin's blacksmith shop to the railroad crossing, and thence to Hagerman's store, is talked of by several of our leading citizens, and that the amount required for the construction of the same is nearly subscribed. The walk will be a great convenience to pedestrians during the winter season, as the locality in question is usually very muddy, and the walk, when once laid, will last for all time. We are glad to notice this spirit of improvement on the part of the persons subscribing towards the crossing, for it shows a confidence in the town and a desire to better our condition.

IMPROVEMENT.—In addition to preparations being made for winter, such as cleaning up, painting, putting on another room and making general repairs, one notices a number of houses in course of construction, principally in the western part of town. Thus is our town gradually improving, enlarging, and in a quiet way increasing its population. We are pleased to note that this growth is gradual; it will be the more permanent thereby. The better class of society is also augmenting its strength and receiving new members.

FINE SHEEP.—This morning 100 Spanish and French Merino rams, were received by Messrs. Kirman & Cutting from Tres Pinos, San Benito Co., Cal. The sheep had been four days on the cars, and looked a little attenuated. The above gentlemen will take part of the bucks to Pyramid Lake, and the remainder to Walker River. We are pleased to see our stock men introducing thoroughbred sheep and other live stock into this country and state. Get good stock. They cost more at first, but prove more economical in the end. Let others emulate the example of Messrs. Cutting & Kirman.

Mr. J. E. Jones reports the shaft of the Jones & Kinkaid mine down 370 feet. He brought in some puzzling ore, but is of the opinion that it is indicative of rich ore lower down. The copper seems to have diminished in quantity.

Jottings.

W. D. Phillips went down on the lightning express last night to Sacramento. Phil's conduct is a little suspicious.

Mr. Isaacs is building a crazy residence on Chestnut street. We surmise that Mr. I. intends to follow the example recently set by his partner.

The subscription for the lighting on dark nights the lamps at each end of the bridge has been paid up, and hereafter the iron beauty will be lighted as per agreement, by those having this matter in charge.

The C. P. R. R. Co. yesterday paid their taxes, amounting to $13,264 98, to the county Treasurer. The taxes of the V. & T. R. R. Co. amount to $5,094.

After next Monday taxes will be delinquent. Property holders walk up and pay your taxes between this time and 9 o'clock Monday night, or be prepared to pay ten per cent. delinquency penalty.

The Elevator Adept.

A Story from Real Life.

Three Renoites attempted to run the elevator of the International hotel, Virginia city. They thought while stopping in the metropolis, a city of altitudes, that rooms in the fifth story would be in keeping with every propriety. To walk down the stairway or slide down the bannisters would, of course, be common. Approaching the elevator, with full purpose of acting dignified, they found no one to propel this creation for high toned convenience. Ability to manipulate was in demand; but to get to the lower levels was the desideratum. A sudden pull on the rope and rapidly descended the trio. It very quickly occurred to their minds that such electric rates were not conducive to personal safety and the engineer gave the rope another pull, but more delicate was his touch this time. The elevator suddenly halted and the trio were tossed for a moment mid-air. They had not recovered from their sudden shock when, to their astonishment the elevator car began slowly to ascend. They gazed at each other in silent awe; the door of the story from which they had originally started came in sight and out they leaped, the "engineer" narrowly escaping with his life. What was to be done? Suppose the thing kept on going. Damages, mortification and fear loomed ominously before them. The gentlemen resolved to head the thing off and secure the services of an injunction on its further progress; but their route was circuitous and its track was direct. It also was Morgan stock and they bet on Morgan blood. The elevator had arrived at the roof and as it was propelled by water power could only exhibit public signs of pendant distress. The trio were soon together and hurrying down to the first floor by the old style of traveling passed from the hotel. Secrecy was enjoined and conjectures as to how the elevator felt and how the landlord would manage the untamed, dispelled all thoughts of their narrow escape and furnished abundant cause for frequent and hearty laughs.

MARKET REPORT.

The period for a steady market has arrived, hence we find but little fluctuation in the prices of market commodities. In the San Francisco market poultry has fallen in price and sweet potatoes have made a slight advance, owing to the supply growing lighter. Money is more in demand on account of the greater activity in mining stocks. Freightage by vessel is low because of the number of ships awaiting assignments. There are 35 vessels idle in the harbor.

In the Reno market trade and prices remain about the same as last week. Honey Lake and California apples have advanced 25 cents on the box. California hides command 21 cents in the New York market. When the Meat Shipping Association starts up, eastern market may find a partial supply from this section.

THE SHOWMAN AND THE PRESIDENT.
—P. T. Barnum, the great showman, went to the White House to console the President the other day, but found his ministrations unnecessary. He remarked on his arrival that he came to express his sympathy because he had a great deal of it for anybody who was President. He had known every President from Jackson down, and they had all got gray under it except Grant. They worried themselves to death. "There is no danger to me, Mr. Barnum," answered the President. "I do not intend to turn gray in office. I do not allow my official annoyances to follow me outside of this room. I go to my family, play with my children, and forget that I am President. Nearly every day when I leave this office, usually from 3 to 4, I go for a drive, but sometimes I prefer to walk. I take with me in my carriage some pleasant gentleman, who I know will not talk to me of public business and politics. A long drive settles my nerves, banishes the sad cases that come to me which I cannot help, and gives me an appetite for my dinner. In the evening I see many socially, and this is a diversion rather than a task. I am rarely troubled with politics in the evening. Those who come, both ladies and gentlemen, are generally known to us, and they come at our invitation. I retire reasonably early and rise early, and so there is little danger of gray hairs in my case."

KISSING IN THE DARK.—A young gentleman of Nevada City, who lately went over to Colfax along with his girl, gives us this as his experience in the Greenhorn tunnel. He says he didn't but yet he talks like he did. This is what he says:

Gentle reader, did you ever—I desire not to be personal, but—did you ever kiss a girl in a railroad tunnel? I never did, but if the truth must be told, I've wanted to mighty bad. Not that I have any idea that a chaste salute in the dark and narrow confines of a tunnel renders a kiss more delicious than if stolen or taken with full permission any where else; but it is the novelty of the thing; it is in the darkness, the rank burglar; the calculation as to the time; the sudden assault; desperate defense the acute agony of skirmish line of hair pins; the carrying of the outer works; the sear; the glorious sweetness of the surrender, and then the condemnable meanness afterwards of the victory; then buried repairs and impossible attempts to appear placid and all serene before the other passengers. I tell you there's a short lifetime in kissing a girl in a tunnel.—Grass Valley Union.

Otis Gibson indignantly denies that he is getting a suit of Chinese armor made. Several of the brethren of his church are willing to stake a whole Sunday's collection against a new bible mark that in a twenty-four foot ring Otis could knock Kearny out of time in five rounds.
